Marlene,

Practically every other day I've been trying to track down a valid address and phone number where I could speak to someone locally. There are a lot of addresses and phone numbers for Lennar, and each one has been a dead end.

As I was preparing a letter to be sent to Lennar's corporate headquarters, I came across the last number in my research that I hadn't called yet. It's in Clearwater, but it is their Central Florida regional office. I've left a message and am waiting for a return phone call. I've also left a message with the design engineer concerning the issue and requesting local contact information for Lennar, who appears to remain a client.

I wish I had more to report, but I feel I'm very close to getting to talk with someone face-to-face in this matter.

Hi Ken:

Thought I'd touch base with you since I haven't heard anything. Any word from any one about the problem in Stratford, Kings Ridge?
