Jeff,

Retaining Wall drawing S-1 note 2.04 B.1 calls out "Concrete 28 day compressive strength shall be a min. of 2500psi PSI regular mix for footings..."

We have a Class 1 NS 3000 approved. Can this mix also be used for the vertical wall portion since it's acceptable for the footing?

All,

Please see the response below from Roger Barth Engineer of Record for the Wall design. In regards to the bid tab not having a line item for #8 rebar, it needs to have that line item as sheet S-3 Detail B/S-3 does show the #8 rebar to be placed in the 12" top slab.

Brad,

Sheet S-3 Detail B/S-3 shows #7 dowels at 6" each face (EF), These dowels should be on the inside or soil face only. The #7 Vert at 12" are tied to alternating #7 dowels. We didn't prepare the bid tab, so no reply.

Subject: N. Hancock Road Extension - Retaining Wall Question (Bid #14-0030)

Deb,

Retaining Wall plans by Southeast Structural Engineers.

Sheet S-3 Detail B/S-3 The Dowel #7 at 6" EF (The spacing does not match the #7 Vert. at 12" and is called to be at each face but, there are Dowel #6 at 18"). The same detail calls for a #8 at 12" Top and the bid tab has no line item for #8 rebar. Please clarify this reinforcement for the retaining wall.
